Just spent twenty minutes talking to Jackie's wife. She said she really appreciated the invitation but she feels it would just be too hard on her to go. She said that Jackie went back to college after getting out of the Army and got a BS degree as well as being certified as a nurse. He also got his masters degree. She said that he made great grades and she was really proud of Jackie and was blessed to have spent the last twenty years with him.

Jackie had a stroke two years ago and according to his wife, had a hard time after the stroke and was in bed the last two months of his life. She said Jackie talked of Berry and of the friends he had made there.
